Weil College Preparatory School

SCHOOL PROFILE 2026–2027

College-preparatory boarding school for student-athletes • Grades 7–12 • Ojai, California

School and Community

Founded in September 1997, Weil College Preparatory School (WCPS) is a small, coeducational boarding school where student-athletes pursue a college-preparatory education within a close-knit international community. Small classes and strong relationships with faculty make individualized attention central to the school's academic approach.

Students learn alongside peers from different countries and backgrounds. Classroom discussion and shared responsibilities in boarding school life encourage them to consider other perspectives, communicate thoughtfully, and contribute to their community.

Academic Approach

WCPS combines rigorous academic expectations with consistent support. Faculty assess student progress regularly and provide individualized guidance and intervention when additional help is needed. Course planning considers each student's preparation, learning needs, and college goals, with Honors and Advanced Placement options for advanced study.

The school has eight teaching faculty members, a majority of whom hold postgraduate degrees. Class size averaged 10 students in the last year. Close contact with teachers helps students ask questions, act on feedback, and take increasing responsibility for their learning.

Preparation for College

The academic program develops critical thinking, clear written and oral communication, and the ability to work independently. Students learn to evaluate evidence, solve problems, and explain their reasoning through interactive and cooperative classroom work.

Guidance in time management, study strategies, note-taking, and college preparation helps students manage academic work alongside training and competition. The school's goal is to prepare students for the independence and responsibility of college life, as well as the academic demands of college coursework.

Accreditation and Curriculum

WCPS is accredited by the Western Association of Schools and Colleges (WASC). Its UC a–g fully approved college-preparatory program meets and exceeds University of California a–g requirements and meets California Department of Education requirements for high schools.
